MIDDLEBURY DEBATERS WILL MEET STRONG SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY TEAM IN MEAD CHAPEL TOMORROW NIGHT

To Argue League Of Nations Question And Advisability of American Participation

LOCAL TEAM WILL UPHOLD NEGATIVE

Lawton '23, Chosen as Captain, Austin '24, Toleman '24, and Savitt '25, Complete Team's Personell

W. Harry Lawton '23, Captain.
Edgar T. Austin '24.
Max M. Savitt '25.
Philip M. Toleman, Alternate.

Syracuse University's 'Varsity debating team will meet the local forensic artists in Mead Memorial Chapel tomorrow night, debating the question Resolved, That the United States should join the League of Nations. The local squad have been busily engaged during the past few weeks preparing for the contest, and it is expected that they will be successful in their efforts.

The 'Varsity team for this debate consists of one senior, two juniors and one sophomore. All of these, with the exception of Toleman '24, are veterans of former inter-collegiate contests. Captain W. Harry Lawton, of Trenton, N. J., made his debut last season when Middlebury debated St. Lawrence University on the home platform. He was awarded the Wetherell Debating Prize on this occasion, and was later chosen as a member of the Middlebury team that debated Hamilton College last spring. Although Lawton did not have an opportunity to speak on this occasion, he was recognized as a keen

Blocked Punt Results In Frosh Victory By 7-3 Score

First Three Periods Scoreless—Daly's Kick Gives '25 Edge—'26 Blockes Punt Behind Goal And Make Tally

When the Class of 1926 writes their history they must not fail to recount that "Patsy" Santangelo and "Shorty" Rice are responsible for their victory over their enemy, the Class of 1925. Daly, playing fullback for the sophomores had previously kicked a field goal, and the score stood 3-0. Then came the freshmen, blocked Kilbride's punt, and the tables were turned, the game ended, the freshmen were victorious. Yes—"The game was played on Monday," and it was the second victory in four days for the first year men.

When referee Ashley blew the whistle for the kickoff, the 1926 found that "Frosty" Williams, the mainstay of their backfield was missing, the sophomores having previously tendered him an invitation to spend the day at the home of Carrol Dyer, which of course he accepted with alacrity. So with a weakened backfield, the Frosh entered the fray, kicking off to their opponents, and proceeding to down the receiver in his tracks. It soon became evident that this was to be no one-sided struggle. The ball see-sawed back and forth, each side fighting desperately but failing to score. The second year men seemed to have a slight edge on their

President Plumley Speaks—

"The attitude taken by The Campus with regard to the athletic problem in Vermont colleges is very commendable, and I am sure will be gladly considered by the administration of Norwich University," said President Plumley of Norwich University last Saturday. President Plumley was in Middlebury to attend the Middlebury-Vermont game.

"We have long had a system at Norwich which safeguarded us from having men on our teams who were not cadets both from a point of view of scholarship and sportsmanship," he said. "We have an all-cadet team. There is still room for improvement in our athletics and The Campus has struck at the core of the problem. You need scholastic requirements, and eligibility rules, that will bring athletics up to a high level. We should be glad to consider a plan that would lead us to this desired end."

President Plumley said that he would be pleased to explain the system being used at Norwich and would submit such an article to The Campus in the near future.

Committee Declare Contest A Four-Cornered Tie

Judges Suggest That Cup Go To Person Suggesting Best Song or Cheer

The contest for the Fay A. Evans Cup was declared to be a tie by the committee consisting of President Paul D. Moody, Coach Arthur M. Brown and Eddy Kalin '23, in their report read at the Rally Banquet last Friday evening. The Cup which would have been awarded to the winner of the contest, had one been selected, was placed on display in the window of Mr. Fay A. Evans' store on Main street, last Thursday afternoon.

In order that the cup may be awarded, the committee of judges recommended that another competition be held and that the person writing the best song or cheer making use of the symbol, "The Black Panther," would be awarded the cup. The terms of this contest will be formulated by the committee and announced in the near future. The report of the committee of judges follows:

"Your committee have considered carefully all the suggestions made. They range from the domestic ram, merino type, to the polar bear, white on a blue background. The two commonest suggestions were on the one hand variations of the feline or cat family—bob cats, wild cats, lynx and catamount—and on the other hand, semi aquatic animals—former denizens of the streams on whose banks we stand, the otter and the beaver.

"Neither of the members of the latter class appealed strongly. The former suggestion was the one of merit to us. But not one of the four animals met our approval completely. And we as a committee inclined strongly to the Black Panther, as an emblem of the College rather than a figurative description of members of the team.

"It is customary to use these figures

Heavy Vermont Backfield Accounts For Many Gains — Fumbles Costly To Both Sides

Margolski of Vermont kicked off to Middlebury and neither side was able to get going sufficiently to make a first down and punting was resorted to. Yarnall punted over the goal line giving Middlebury the ball on the 20 yard line. Ashley failed in an attempt to gain around end and Middlebury was penalized 15 yards for roughness. The ball was put into play on the 5 yard line and Ashley made a pretty punt from back of the goal posts to the 30 yard line. Vermont failed to break through the Middlebury defense and Novotny recovered a fumble giving Middlebury the ball on Vermont's 37 yard line. Middlebury was unable to penetrate the Vermont line for any great gains after which Ashley punted to Gooch on his 15 yard line, who ran

UNVEIL MEMORIAL AT VESPER SERVICE

Governor-Elect Proctor Dedicates Memorial To Middlebury Men Killed In The World War—Dr. Hill Speaks

The service held in the Mead Memorial Chapel last Sunday afternoon, in memory of the nine Middlebury men who gave their lives in the war, was an unforgetably beautiful and impressive one. The very simplicity of the ceremony and the solemn note of consecration prevalent during the service added to the impressive atmosphere of the occasion.

President Paul D. Moody led the service and Dr. W. C. Hill of New Britain, Conn., gave the principal address. The theme of Dr. Hill's sermon was "Faith" and he took as his text, Hebrews 11-8, "By faith he went not knowing."

He spoke of the necessity for faith in the life of the individual since life is an adventure and everyone must take constant risks. He gave as the only sure foundation of faith the Christian religion and explained the meaning of faith according to the Christian conception.

RALLY BANQUET A MARKED SUCCESS

300 Attend Annual Event On Eve Of Game

Leonard '95, Toastmaster—President Moody, Skeels '95, Gorham '18, Captain Drost And Coach Morey Speak

Filled with enthusiasm and "the old Middlebury spirit," and prompted by a deep and unfailing love for their Alma Mater, more than 300 alumni and undergraduates of Middlebury College gathered in McCullough Gymnasium on Friday evening for the third annual and most successful rally banquet preceeding the Vermont game. Pep was the order of the evening and from start to finish, from the oldest alumnus to the youngest freshman, one thing was evident, the entire college was back of the team, win or lose. College spirit was at its zenith and it was one of those occasions that makes a man proud to be able to say, "I am a Middlebury man."

Charles L. Leonard of the Class of 1895 and now president of Troy Conference Academy acted as toastmaster. In a short introductory talk he made a strong plea for the maintenance of high scholarship at Middlebury college and the preservation of the old Middlebury spirit. He admitted, however, that there were other things to be sought for in college besides the coveted Phi Beta Kappa key. He declared that the men and women who were scholastically honored by winning this key should be looked up to and respected as ones who had brought honor to themselves and the college. Continuing, he strongly urged participation in athletics by every man who was able to do so. He brought out the fact that the discipline and training of the gridiron was of the most valuable kind in the world the commissioned men in the World War were men who had won laurels on the football field of glory. In closing he paid high tribute to President

5,000 See Vermont Win State Championship In Battle On Porter Field—Blue Team Outweighed

CAPT. DROST MAKES SENSATIONAL DASH

Completes Pass From Ashley And Runs 50 Yards Before Being Downed On Vermont's 20 Yard Line

Before a gallery of 5,000, the Black Panther went down to defeat before its ancient rival, the University of Vermont, last Saturday on Porter Field by a 32-0 score. tI just seemed natural for the Green and Gold eleven to invade the Black Panther's den and scamper off on the healthy end of the score, after they had walked into the Dartmouth Indian's wigwam and scalped the Hanover tribe 6-3. But the whole story is not told by simply telling the score. In fact that is simply the story in brief.

In the first place Middlebury was outweighed 20 pounds to the man and while it was outweighed it was not outplayed, and writer after writer in every state paper, including even the Burlington Free Press, which characterized the Blue and White team as "the hard fighting Middlebury team," have praised the work of the local eleven.

Starting off with that fight that had held Harvard, Dartmouth, Penn State and the other teams on Middlebury schedules, the Black Panther held the Burlington team scoreless during the first period. The Middlebury team kept the visitors on the anxious seat all during the period and only when Easton connected with Gooch's pass

Colgate Man New Coach—Starts Work With Quintet

Has Coached Bates Five And Champpionship St. Lawrence Basketball Team—To Pick 'Varsity

Coach Carl H. Smith, formerly coach of the Bates College quintet and the 1920 St. Lawrence championship team, entered upon his duties as coach of the local basketball squad yesterday. Coach Smith starred during his college days on the Colgate quintet, and has for the past few years been engaged in coaching and physical education work. His first step yesterday was to get a line on the various men and make his selections of the 'Varsity squad and the second team squad.

A practice schedule has been adopted calling for the teams to meet on Monday evening at 8:15, on Tuesday and Thursday from 3:00 to 6:00 p. m. and on Wednesday and Friday at 7:30. The practice schedule will be continued until the season opens with Dartmouth at Hanover on Dec. 9.

The first home game will be with the University of Vermont aggregation. The local cagers feel that they will have to avenge their double defeat of last season and are primed for their match with the Burlington team.

Captain Leonard '23 has been playing a remarkable game since the practice season opened and Hardy '24, Rich '25, Sikorski '23, Axtel '24 and Lacy '23, have all been going in mid-season form.

DEFEATED—
BUT NOT IN SPIRIT!

Could you have followed the team in its travels from one end of the field to the other; could you have seen the fight displayed by the eleven blue sweatered men; could you have witnessed, at close range, their spirit—could you have done these things, you would know the stuff that Middlebury men are made of, for it is the stuff that gives, and gives, and keeps on giving until the last whistle has blown and the verdict made known.

Today, as we reflect upon the game last Saturday, we see no reason why Middlebury should hang her head in shame. We have tasted the bitter cup of defeat, but in last Saturday's battle with an old enemy, we were not disgraced. In fact, our colors were glorified, because eleven Middlebury men demonstratd to the 5,000 who witnessed the contest that they were made of that fighting quality that knows no defeat.

But two weeks ago Middlebury defeated Tufts, and the college bells rang cut the tones of "Victory." The entire college rejoiced. College spirit was at its zenith. This week, while we have no occasion for such rejoicing, we have much cause for pride in the little squad that battled a team that for years has been our greatest rival. The spirit that backed the team in victory, cannot waver in the face of defeat. That is not Middlebury spirit. While victories are pleasant, the thing that counts most is the manner in which our men fought. The world does not ask whether we won or lost. The question is, "did you fight a good fight?"

Middlebury's little Blue team, under its leader, Captain Drost, has been constantly mindful of the Middlebury spirit. They are not given to making excuses. They are not of the brand that fight hard at first and then slowly give way. They are Middlebury men, possessing that indomitable spirit of service and sacrifice to the college they love so well. Middlebury may have been defeated, but Middlebury is proud of her team!

CHEERING

Can the girls cheer?

There can be no doubt in the minds of those who stood on the Tufts sidelines and listened to the cheering before the game that the female contingent in the stands was doing its part to urge the team on to the attack.

Of course there is some laughter when the women try to vie with the men in a long "Midd-will-bury Who-o-o," because the contrast is so great between the feeble, high-pitched notes of the feminine and the mighty, anthropoid roaring of the masculine. The real fault, however, is not with the high-pitched voices but with the fact that their owners have not had sufficient practice in cheering so that they are perfectly united and in harmony. Harmony, after all, is the secret of good cheering whether it be by bass voice or by soprano.

The writer has observed that when the girls are invited to participate in the after-chapel cheer practice, very few of them fail to do so; and he has also perceived that at such times, the men's college remains almost as a body, and yells with much more vigor than on other occasions. If the presence of the women is necessary to bring out the best cheering the men are capable of, let's have them there every time!

Cheering seems to be the best outward way of stirring up group enthusiasm and of demonstrating it. We know that the girls are enthusiastic supporters of the team. Why not give them a chance to show it?

Let us not forget that as far as college loyalty is concerned we are all one college whether we live in Hepburn Hall or in Pearsons.

RALLY BANQUET A MARKED SUCCESS—300 ATTEND

Moody and characterized him as a man deeply interested in all that is Middlebury's and one who would add prestige and dignity to the college.

President Moody spoke of the splendid morale here at Middlebury and of the splendid fight the team had been making this year. He strongly emphasized the fact that athletics at Middlebury were openly above aboard in every respect and were clean throughout, in spite of the fact that Middlebury could have taken men who might have added football honor to the Blue and White, but who were not able to meet the scholastic requirements.

In one of the most enthusiastic speeches of the evening Judge Homer L. Skeels of the Class of 1898 told of the old fights between Middlebury and Vermont and of the pep that was in evidence then

In speaking for the younger alumni Kenneth Gorham of the Class of 1918 said that he had followed Middlebury teams for the past 15 years but that he was absolutely certain that the team this year was the best coached and hardest fighting little eleven in the history of the college. He predicted that the sun might rise Green and Yellow on Saturday morning but that it would set in a blaze of Blue and White.

Captain Drost emitted his usual ten word telegram at this point by saying that the team was just counting the minutes until the game and that they simply could not be restrained after the game got going. "You just can't hold those men," declared "E. D."

The last speaker on the program was Coach Dave Morey and he reiterated President Moody's point that Athletics were clean and above board here. He said that under President Moody athletics had taken a new lease on life and that he was certain Middlebury would gain new prestige under the careful guiding power of Prexy Moody. Coach Morey read letters from the coaches of the various teams the Blue and White have played this year and they were unanimous that Middlebury had one of the greatest machines in the east.

After the regular program short speeches were given by Robert Rice of Niagara Falls, Judge Harry Day of Concord, N. H., and Judge Allen. Mrs. Maude O. Mason, matron of Hepburn Hall, catered for the event, and the appreciation of her work was evidenced in a "long Middlebury" for "Mother Mason."

"No Tickee, No Shirtee!"

We see by the papers that some American Missionaries were recently held up by Chinese bandits in the Old Country. It is not necessary to go to the Orient in order to get that thrill. Just patronize a Chink laundry.

The whole college was all het up about this here scrap and football game and Sunday night things were happening thick and fast. A certain room in North Star looked like a cyclone and a tornado had engaged in a slight ruction. Kidnapping was quite in vogue then as well as Monday morning. There was plenty of material for a budding Nick Carter to scribble about and Shylock Foames himself would have been run ragged trying to solve the mysteries which came up.

This commotion brought forth the expected result. Appendicitis came to the fore and played a big part in the activities.

What, oh what are we coming to? we'd like to ask when the freshmen take out a soph and paddle him and go through their stunts. We expect to hear next week where the freshmen have a special invitation party for the members of the Soph Rules Committee.

After the Hat Scrap was over and it was thought that it was a tie one blood-thirsty yearling says, "Well, let's do it all over again!"

SANTANGELO WINS FRESHMAN PRIZE

Sampson Second—Undergrad To Award Sweaters This Year—Pass Three Amendments

"Patsy" Santangelo was awarded first prize in the Freshmen P-rade at the meeting of the Undergraduate Association last night. Samson was awarded the second prize. The Student Council committee selected Santangelo who was one of the dark-skinned gentlemen, as the best made-up man in the P-rade. Samson was the head band-master.

The association voted to give sweaters to all 1922 football lettermen, and levied a tax of fifty cents per member to raise the money for buying the sweaters. It was provided that the collection of this tax should be placed in the hands of the sweater committee. The names of the men who earned the "M" this season, as recommended by the Athletic Council and accepted by the association, are: Captain Drost, Klevenow, Moynihan, Gallagher, Ehlert, Mullen, Ashley, Brosowsky, Davie, Potter, Novotny, Kalin, Jakway, Papke, Reigleman, Williams, Holquist and Manager Austin.

Three amendments to the Undergraduate Association: the first relating to the membership of the Sophomore Rules Committee; the second, to the abolishing of the Library Committee; and the third, stating that no member should be qualified to vote unless his dues are paid within one month after the opening of the college year, were passed by a huge majority.

The recommendation of the Athletic Council to the effect that Drost '23 should be elected manager of the Outing Club was voted unanimously. The report of the Student Council stated that that body voted at its meeting yesterday afternoon that the Hat Scrap be declared no contest, that is, that no point should be awarded the Freshman Class for winning the Scrap, but that a winter sports contest between freshmen and sophomores should be inaugurated to take its place.

The association voted to petition President Moody that a fire extinguisher be placed on every floor of each dormitory section.

Fire Destroys Pleiad Lodge—Origin Unknown

Prof. Voter Urges Students To Support Drive To Re-Build Cabin —Seek $150

Fire, of unknown origin, completely destroyed the Lake Pleiad Lodge on the Long Trail, about two miles from Breadloaf Inn, recently. A lumberman coming over the trail saw a flame and upon investigation found the lodge burning. He lost his hat, coat and shoes in fighting the blaze.

The lodge is owned by the Lake Pleiad section of the Green Mountain Club. Prof. C. P. Voter of the Department of Chemistry is Chairman of the local trail committee, and is also a trustee of the state organization. When questioned last night he said that the Lake Pleiad section of the Green Mountain Club would probably attempt to rebuild the lodge this fall.

"We hope to start a campaign soon to raise 150, whereby we may rebuild the lodge," said Prof. Voter. "Not only is it a shelter for members of the Outing Club who use it during the winter months, but it is a fire protection for the Battell forest. The College is directly concerned, and I hope that every student will, if possible, aid us in rebuilding it. That it is used is evidenced by the fact that over 800 names were in the register, and it is indeed too bad that this was destroyed in the fire."

The lodge has long been used as a stopping place for hikers on the Long Trail.

Over 400 alumni attended the game last Saturday.

COMMUNICATION

Coach Brown Commends Stand On Athletics—Thinks Carrying Out of Plan Would Be Good Step

To the Editor of the Campus:

Allow me to congratulate you on the stand which you have taken regarding the formation of a committee to pass upon rules of eligibility and other matters pertaining to athletics in the three Vermont institutions, Norwich, University of Vermont and Middlebury. The carrying out of your plan would certainly be a step in the right direction and should go far toward establishing a more ideal scheme of intercollegiate athletics here in the state.

I believe we have failed to make the most of our opportunities in the past, largely because we have never made a real effort to organize.

If President Bailey, President Plumley and President Moody could be prevailed upon to take the lead in this matter I am sure that the conference would be very much worth while for our future state inter-collegiate relationships in athletics.

Cordially yours,
ARTHUR M. BROWN

in two ways. We speak of the Princeton Tiger—not tigers; the Yale Bulldog—not bulldogs; of the Army Mule—not mules. Other colleges call their players these—the Nittany Lions for example. The latter use of the term does not appeal so much to us.

"We, the Committee, therefore, submit the Black Panther as the symbol or emblem. Our players are the cubs of the Black Panther, and with the approval of Mr. Evans, whose generosity is responsible for the cup, declare the contest a draw, and again with his consent, award the cup to the writed of the most successful song or cheer making use of this symbol. The terms of this contest are to be announced shortly when the rules governing it can be formulated."

It is expected that the terms of the contest will be ready for announcement next week, and the date for its official closing will be announced at this time also.

Deutscher Verein Meets

The Deutscher Verein, Middlebury's newly organized German Language club, met in the Music Hall last Wednesday. The meeting was conducted in true German fashion, and concluded as all good German gatherings do, with a program of folk songs.

In a large measure the evening was made a success by Miss Madeline Gaylord's charming rendition of the songs, "Das Alte Lied," and "Haiden-Roslein." Miss Gaylor was accompanied on the piano by Miss Dorothy Parsons.

JOURNALISM FIRST VOCATIONAL TOPIC

Dr. Cooper of Columbia To Lecture

Speaker Connected With Newspapers For Forty Years

Dr. Charles P. Cooper, Professor of Journalism at the Columbia School of Journalism, will deliver the opening lecture of the vocational series in the lecture room of the Chemistry Building, Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock. Dr. Cooper will take for his subject, "Journalism as a Profession."

Having entered the profession of Journalism upon the completion of his college work, Dr. Cooper started as a cub reporter on the staff of the Springfield Republican and after a few years resigned his position to enter the employ of the old New York Sun, then being run by Charles A. Dana, the nestor of American Journalism.

From the position of reporter, Dr. Cooper was promoted step by step until he finally became Managing Editor of The Sun. He served on the staff of this paper for over 30 years. Upon his resignation from service here, he was employed by the New York Times, working at the "city" desk for twelve years. He became a member of the faculty of the Columbia School of Journalism when it was organized several years ago.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULES GO ON SALE SATURDAY

Basketball Manager A. A. Draper '23, will open the sale of Basketball Schedules Saturday morning after Chapel, it was announced this morning. The schedules are by far the most unique ever seen on campus, being tied with Yale blue and white ribbon, and being printed in blue throughout. The booklet consists of eight pages and contains the scheduled games for the 1922-1923 season. On the back page a list of the members of the squad is given.

"We are putting these programs on sale for the express purpose of aiding the Cage fund," said Manager Draper this morning. "All the proceeds will be turned over to it and we hope that everyone will aid the fund in this manner. The cost of printing the programs has been partially defrayed by the advertisers, so that the sale will net the Cage fund practically the entire amount raised." The schedules are ten cents each, and will be sold in both the Men's and Women's Colleges.

English Club Meets

The program for the last meeting of the English club, held on Wednesday night, was in charge of group 1. For the more serious part of the evening's events, "A Shelf of Recent Novels" was offered. Mr. Wright talked on "Mr. Waddington of Wick," by Miss Sinclair. Mildred Keinle gave character sketches from the "Vehement Flame." Beulah Scott summarized and read extracts from Willa Cather's "One of Ours." For the second and lighter part of the program Professor Cady read from the "Queen of Sheba," by Phineas A. Crutch.

From The Sidelines

Middlebury may not be famous nationally but Saturday she was the center of the Universe as far as this neck o' the woods was concerned. The crowd started milling around the box office about 12:30 and the stands were jammed before the Vermont Special pulled in.

About two the band came tearing down the pike hitting on all six.

The Vermont eleven had their hands all taped up and it reminded us of the days when we competed for fistic honors only we wore gloves.

The Vermont hooters came in just a couple minutes before the kick off with horns tooting.

Stan stepped off in a cloud of dust and made five yards on the second down. They could not get him so they got his pants. He is about the coolest man under fire we ever laid eyes on.

This much touted Vermont line wasn't so good. Quite a few times Middlebury got through and smeared passes.

Vermont sure got all the breaks. The Gods of chance didn't smile on them, they laughed out loud! They played a good game of billiard passing. Twice their passes were intercepted but glanced into golden hands.

That pass for about 30 yards, Ashley to Drost was about the classiest stuff ever seen in these parts. Things looked rosy for a score but just then, time was!

A wet time! Gooch runs back a punt and winds up in the water bucket. Looked like water polo.

Something scandalous the way these Burlingtonians camped on Ashley's trail but at that he was still ringing up gains. Twice he pulled the wool over Green eyes by faking a pass and then tearing through for a nice yardoge.

FROSH BIBLES TO BE DISTRIBUTED TOMORROW

The Freshmen Handbook will be distributed to the members of the Freshmen Class tomorrow and Friday it was announced this morning by Reginald L. Cook, editor of the book. Mr. Cook said that the publication would be on sale for the upper-classmen any time after Friday.

The Handbook is slightly larger in size this year than last, and the arrangement of the pages make the book appeal to the eye. It is bound in a blue cloth cover with the letter M stamped in white on the outside.

The book is published annually by the The Christian Associations of the College who distribute it, free of charge, to the members of the entering class. The membrs of the three upper classes purchase the handbook at a cost of fifty cents. Lloyd T. Hayward is business manager of the publication.

SOPHOMORE HOP TICKETS ON SALE—BURROUGHS TO PLAY

Good Guns, only 32 more shopping days before Xmas. Similarly, Great Scott, only 7 more days before the Sophomore Hop. And, likewise, do your Hop ticket buying early to avoid are crush.

The chairman of the committee in charge received a telegram on Friday from Tom Burroughs of St. Johnsbury, Vermont, which closed the contract, whereby his famous Tom Burroughs Orchestra will furnish the music for the dance next Wednesday. Such good fortune assures the success of the Hop. Apparently all that ticket holders have to do now is get out their dancing shoes.

VARSITY TO LOSE FIVE VETERANS

Moynihan Only Third Season Man On Team

Drost, Ashley, Kalin, Gallagher And Jakway Play Last 'Varsity Game

Five members of the 'Varsity football squad bid farewell to the sport they had played during the past four seasons, when the curtain came down on the season of 1922, last Saturday. Captain "E. D." Drost heads the list, while "Stan" Ashley, "Sweed" Kalin, "Rip" Gallagher and "Jack" Jakway follow. Last year the team lost five of its veterans, and this year a like number will leave. "Connie" Moynihan is the only three-season veteran on the squad this year, and there is a possibility that Quackenbush ex-'23 will return next year.

Captain Drost matriculated from South Division High School of Milwaukee, Wis. He has been a member of the 'Varsity football team for four seasons and of the baseball and track squads for the past three years. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, Delta Tau and the Sages. Captain Drost has had the distinction of starting in every football game during the past four years.

"Stan" Ashley, running mate of Captain Drost, has also played a stellar role on the gridiron, and has been a 'Varsity man for four seasons. He likewise shines in tennis, and has been a member of the team for four years. Music has been Ashley's chief sideline and he has played with the college orchestra for four years. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, Delta Tau, and the Sages.

"Swede" Kalin matriculated from New Britain High School, and has been a member of the 'Varsity football team for the past four seasons. He was president of the Class of 1923 during his sophomore year, and last spring he was elected preident of the Undergraduate Association. During his sophomore year Kalin won the first Merrill Prize. He has served on the Student Council, the Interfraternity Council the Athletic Council, and is a member and sent Vermont stock up 35 points. Vermont worked the ball to Middlebury's 10 yard line, and a fumble on the next play turned the ball in Middlebury's direction. The local team fumbled and Semansky scooped the ball up on the 5 yard line, but was downed before he could make any progress. Captain Johnson added the 5 points, crossed the chalk mark and gave Vermont her initial tally.

CAPTAIN DROST MAKES 50 YARD RUN IN GAME

Within a few minutes Vermont's aeriels started their broadcasting and shot through for another tally which was credited to Gooch. He failed however to kick the goal. Then came the series of play that threw terror into the Green and Gold ranks. Middlebury started Vermont tactics and worked the passing game. A pass, Ashley to Drost, sent them from their own 20 yard line, 10 yards ahead. Then came the play that made Beck and Yarnell, Eastburn and the remainder of the Burlington stars turn green with envy, for Drost shook himself clear of the whole outfit and dashed 50 yards up the field before a Vermonter downed him on the visitors 20-yd line

Captain Drost deserves much of the credit for the remarkable showing made against such great odds Saturday. Not only did he play his hard-fighting game fro mthe first whistle to the last, but he played his consistent, clean game. His work as a member of Middlebury's football team, and his leadership of this year's eleven will never be forgotten. His remarkable playing Saturday makes, him as Hindley of the Rutland Herald said, one of the best halfbacks in Vermont.

The half ended before Middlebury was able to carry the ball further. Then came the second half. For the first few minutes of play it seemed as though they would repeat their performance at the close of the first half. By working the ball up the field they reached a point within 25 yards of the Vermont goal, only to be held for downs. Vermont punted and again Middlebury worked the ball down, only to have a pass intercepted by Margolski who was downed in mid-field.

Passes again figured in the contest and Vermont tallied for the third time. The score stood 20-0 as the quarter ended. A fumble on the kickoff sent the ball into Vermont hands and they were off for the fourth touchdown, Beck being responsible. On the kick off Middlebury fumbled and Semansky, hanging out around the Middlebury goal circled the ball and crossed the chalk mark. This ended the scoring and the curtain came down on the season of 1922.

Ashley earned his title of the "best best football player in Vermont" by his playing Saturday. Captain Drost proved a most worthy running mate, and together they worked pass after pass, each time placing the ball nearer the Vermont goal. Klevenow at full, stopped many Vermont plays, while Novotny, Reigelman and Mullen were in every line play. Moynihan played his usual game and halted the Burlington outfit more than once when they would attempt to slip through center.

Gooch, Beck, Johnson and Yarnell furnished the Vermont supporters the most delight. They proved to be a great running combination and were the stars for Vermont throughout.

it back 7 yards before being held. Vermont immediately punted to Papke on the 22 yard line and he ran the ball back 12 yards for a pretty gain. Middlebury failed to make much headway until Novotny, in a confusing trick play succeeded in carrying the ball 20 yards. The quarter ended with the ball on Middlebury's 30 yard line.

Score Middlebury 0, Vermont 0.

The second quarter opened with Middlebury being forced to punt and Beck received the ball on his own 30 yard line and ran it back 15 yards. He skirted right end for a gain of 8 yards and Yarnall tore through for 3 yards more, giving Vermont a first down. Vermont resorted to an aerial attack but Gooch was tackled for a 10 yard loss. On the second attempt a pass from Gooch to Eastburn was completed giving Vermont 22 yards. Papke was injured in this play and taken out with Holquist substituting. Johnson plunged thru center for another first down for Vermont. Twice the ball changed hand on fumbles, Vermont finally recovering on Middlebury's 5 yard line. Beck failed in an attempt to break through the line but on a second try Semansky smashed through for a touchdown after which Gooch kicked the goal.

Ashley took the kickoff and ran it back 15 yards to his own 25 yard line. Davie went in for Reigleman and Schwarz for Holquist. Several tackling and confused trick plays failed to net the Blue and White any great gains and Ashley punted to Gooch on the 30 yard line, who ran it back 17 yards. Gooch hurled a pretty forward to Semansky for a gain of 15 yards and a second one Gooch to Beck gained 7 more yards, Beck being downed on the 5 yard line. Johnson failed in several attempted line plunges after which Gooch collected Vermont's second touchdown but failed to kick the goal.

Schwarz received the kickoff on his own 10 yard line and ran 5 yards before being stopped. Williams went in for Schwarz and Middlebruy completed a pretty forward of 10 yards from Ashley to Drost. In one of the most sensational plays of the afternoon Drost shook himself clear of the entire Vermont eleven and dashed up the field for 50 yards before he was downed from behind. This brought the ball to the 20 yard line and Middlebury was getting underway for a touchdown when the whistle blew for the first half Score Middlebury 0, Vermont 13.

At the beginning of the second half Reigleman and Holquist were in the line up and Klevenow took the kickoff on the 15 yard line and ran it back 33 yards before being downed. Middlebury failed to gain and Ashley punted to Gooch who was downed in his tracks on the 28 yard line. Yarnell immediately returned the punt, Holquist receiving it and running it back 15 yards to the 40 yard line. Ashley on a fake forward gained 11 yards and Klevenow went through the line for 5 yards more. A forward from Ashley to Drost netted another 4 yards after which Drost went through left tackle for 3 yards and scored a first down. Drost on a crisscross play gained 3 more yards, Ashley made 3 through tackles and a pass from Ashley to Holquist netted 8 yards and another first down with the ball on Vermont's 25 yard line. Vermont held and took the ball, punting immediately. Holquist took the punt and ran it back to the 50 yard line. Margolski intercepted a pass giving the ball to Vermont on her 44 yard line. She completed a first down in two plays and on failing to break through the Blue and White defense tried an aerial attack. A pass from Beck to Yarnell brought the ball to Middlebury's 20 yard line. Beck and Johnson hammered the line steadily and Beck went through tackle for the third touchdown. The period ended with Gooch failing to kick the goal. Score, Middlebury 0, Vermont 19.

Ashley received the ball on the 10 yard line in the last period and ran it back another 15 yards. He gained 9 yards around right end but on the next play Yarnell recovered the fumble. Lemay went in for Maisley and after a couple of small gains Beck skirted left end for a gain of 25 yards. Leary went in for Gallagher. Beck tore loose once more and made 15 yards around right end for the fourth touchdown. Gooch failed to kick the goal.

Sunderland took Eastburn's position and Klevenow received the ball on his own 30 yard line and ran the ball back to the center of the field. Jakway went in for Drost. Yarnell intercepted a pass and ran back to the 27 yard line. Vermont, failing to gain, punted. Holquist fumbled in receiving the punt and Semansky in a spectacular play scopped up the ball and dashed for a touchdown. Gooch kicked the goal. E. Johnson went in for Garrity and there was an exchange of punts. Williams substituted for Schwarz while Hill went in for Nowland. A pretty forward, Gooch to Semansky, gained 12 yards and put the ball on the 40 yard line. A second pass failed but a third gained 15 yards, and Yarnell ran for 10 more before being tackled. The whistle blew with the ball in Vermont's possession on Middlebury's 5 yard line. Score, Middlebury 0, Vermont 32.

opponents, however, as they managed to keep the ball in Frosh territory most of the time.

In the second quarter the 1925 team secured the ball on the Frosh 5 yard line when Whitney fumbled, but they lacked the punch necessary to put it over. Just as the half ended, "Frosty" appeared on the scene, having finished his visit at Carroll's and having decided that his presence would be welcome on the field of conflict. It is even said that he left by the back way, feeling that the family might be ashamed to have him use the front entrance. Anyway here he was, and a more delighted bunch of youngsters never was seen or heard than those happy, howling Frosh.

The last period witnessed a fine goal when Daly '25 dropped back on the 10 yard line and lifted the ball neatly over the bar for the first score of the game. The Frosh rushed forward desperately to receive the kickoff, but failed to make their distance and Bennett attempted to punt. Kilbride broke through and blocked the kick. Things kept looking bad for 1926 and long faces began to grow longer on the Frosh sidelines. The tide turned, however, when after several bad penalties set the sophomores back on their own 6 yard line. Daly called for a punt. "Smash that line! Get through and block that punt!" from '26. "Hold her, Sophs! Hold that line!" from '25. But the fates were now smiling on the peagreen, and, though the line held, "Patsy" Santangelo slipped around the end and threw himself in front of Kilbride's punt. The ball bounded back over the goal line and "Shorty" Rice, who had already starred for '26, pounced on it, making the touchdown for the Frosh. Bennett then sent the pigskin between the goal posts for the extra count.

DEBATERS TO FACE SYRACUSE TEAM IN CHAPEL TOMORROW

debater, and is expected to carry the heavy work for the team tomorrow.

Edgar T. Austin, who two years ago aided in defeating the University of Vermont before a local audience, will be the keystone man on the team. Austin is identified in many of the campus activities, and is business manager of the 1924 Kaleidoscope.

Max M. Savitt, will be the middle man in tomorrow's contest. He has participated in but one debate, and that at Burlington last Spring when Middlebury defeated the University of Vermont by a 2-1 vote. A short time later he was awarded the first Parker prize. He has shown great promise in the preliminary debates this season.

Philip M. Toleman '24, winner of the fourth Merrill Prize early in the Spring, was selected for the position of alternate.

Syracuse University has a distant advantage in tomorrow's debate, due to the fact that she has a College of Oratory from which to select her material for debating teams. The coaching system here is so very thorough, however, that the Middlebury team will not be outclassed by the New Yorkers. The debate, it is expected, will be very closely contested.

President Paul D. Moody will preside at the debate, while Judge George M. Powers of the Vermont Supreme Court; Mr. Benjamin Gates of Montpelier, State Auditor; and Mr. Benjamin Williams of the Vermont Marble Co., Proctor, will render the decision. Prof. Lewis J. Hathaway is arranging a musical program which will be given at the opening of the debate and while the judges are considering their decision.

PROCTOR UNVEILS MEMORIAL AT SUNDAY VESPER SERVICE

Dr. Hill then applied the idea of faith to the spirit in which the American Army entered the war. He characterized the American soldiers as "soldiers of the faith" and said that they made their great sacrifice in the belief that the generations coming after them would profit by it.

He said that their faith was a challenge to all Americans to have a like faith and to live up to it as nobly as they and closed by quoting Lincoln's famous phrase, "That these honored dead may not have died in vain."

Dr. Hill's talk was followed by the unveiling of the commemorative tablet. Two representatives of the American army and navy led the participants in the ceremony to the side of the chapel where the tablet is placed. Governor-elect Redfield Proctor spoke a few appropriate words before drawing aside the service flag from the tablet. Professor Myron R. Sanford read the names of the nine men, their class in college, their rank in the army and the date of their births and deaths.

One impressive feature of the occasion was the presence of the ex-service men who attended in a body and formed a part of the processional which marched into the chapel.

Special music was planned by Professor Hathaway. The beautiful "Soldier's Rest" was sung by the choir. Taps were sounded at the close of the service.

of the Glee Club and English Club. Kalin is a member of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity, Delta Tau and the Waubanakees.

Matriculating from St. Johnsbury High School, "Rip" Gallagher started out on the baseball diamond and for three seasons held down a regular berth on the nine. His football record dates from last season, and this season he completed his second year in this field of athletic activity. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and the Waubanakees.

Entering Middlebury from Barre High School, "Jack" Jakway has worked hard on the gridiron for the past four years. His playing this vear has been spectacular and those who witnessed his work at the Columbia game will never forget his 45 yards on four plays. He will manage the 1923 'varsity baseball team, and for a sideline entertains himself by playing basketball. He is a member of Delta Tau, the Sages and the Waubanakees.
